

Oh Goodness!

A couple of days ago Mommy and Daddy were watching a little TV while I was playing with some toys. I went to my playroom for a minute and when I walked back into the living room and thought the TV was broken. The screen was blank...so I said, "Uh Oh. The TV is broken. Oh goodness!" Mommy and Daddy smiled and giggled, then Daddy told me that it wasn't broken, they just turned it off. Then I said, "Oh! Okay!" and went on about my business.

Mommy says that I went to sleep one night only putting two words together in a small, small sentence...then, when I woke up the next day I was talking in 4 and 5 word sentences. I guess I just observe everything a whole lot and then when I am very comfortable with it I jump in like I've been doing it forever. Hee hee. I'm smart like that.
